

Disasters will now have names. County workers will be able to identify which disaster a payment is for and see the amount of dollars remaining before the maximum payment limit would be reached in their county for that specific disaster.

County workers must now enter all diversion requests into CBMS and indicate the reason for the Diversion denial if the request will not be approved so the client can be notified of these eligibility decisions appropriately.

The messages displayed in the Reasons related list in wrap up relating to Diversions and Disaster payments have been improved to make it easy to identify why a Diversion or Disaster payment is not passing and how to fix it.

Workers will be able to issue diversions to households that already received 60 months of TANF without entering an extension month.

Colorado Works will no longer pend for Child Support Referral data entry when only a Diversion or Disaster Diversion is being approved, or when Colorado Works will be denied due to over income.
